INITIATIVE FOR LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT AND YOUTH EMPOWERMENT

2022 ANNUAL ≡ REPORT

For the past 6 years when official operations began, Young Leaders Network has continued to grow, learn, and grow to create an inclusive society where all are educated, empowered and engaged for sustainable development in Africa.

The year 2022 witnessed tremendous growth and progress for Young Leaders Network, we secured new partnerships, moved into our permanent offices; built team capacities and strengthen our systems.

Part of the system strengthening initiatives were the reviews of our Organization's policies to standard procedures and practices as it relates to procurement, budget processes, asset management, resource mobilizations and travels. This is to position YLN for exponential and sustainable growth.

Young Leaders Network developed and moved into a standard office structure with a boardroom and serene out-door meeting places on October 26, 2022. This was necessary to enhance the effectiveness of the work force and accommodate the growth of the organization. This expansion also came with the addition of 4 support staff in the administration and programs department. YLN continued to support staff for professional development initiatives.

In the year 2022, YLN partnered and implemented interventions with support from 4 organizations: Malala Funds, National Endowment for Democracy, Development Exchange Centre, and WANEP Nigeria. YLN also expanded her business venture activities in fishery and grains farming.

We appreciate the relentless effort of our generous supporters, tireless Staff and Board of the organization for this amazing success.

Strengthening Youth Political Participation

Voters' Sensitization Rally in Bauchi LGA.

With renewed Endowment support, Young Leaders Network (YLN) continued to strengthen the capacity of out of school youth and women to participate in politics. To achieve this objective, YLN organized Citizen-Legislative interactions, inter-party youth and civil society forum and community town halls. These activities were aimed at building the capacity if both the electorates and the elected for enhanced service delivery. YLN also worked with community groups to develop community charter of needs which were used as advocacy tools to their electorates.

To prepare grounds towards a peaceful 2023 elections, YLN carried out various voter sensitization exercises ranging from hikes to rallies to door-to-door sensitization and radio outreaches. YLN also trained Peace Ambassadors to promote peaceful elections in the communities we work.

Safe to School Project

The Safe to School Project has the objective to promote gender responsive learning and safe spaces for the girl child in secondary schools in northern Nigeria. The project which is funded by Development Exchange Centre (DEC) with support from Bread for the World Germany has in diverse ways impacted the lives of the girls, teachers in 3 secondary schools (Government Day Secondary School Bakari, Government Day Secondary School Gwallameji and City Comprehensive Secondary School Bauchi) within Bauchi metropolis.

Recorded success on safe to school project

Building Girls Confidence:

Most of the girls were shy and afraid to express themselves, but before completing the curriculum, several girls were sparked up and over 85% of the girls were transformed through our rich curriculum to break out of shyness become expressive, bold and confident. Midway into the project, over 80% of the girls in the Adolescent Girls Mentorship Clubs emerged as school prefects.

"Through this club I have discovered myself, I now know what to study. I had a passion within me that I had not discovered, or maybe I was too shy to tell anyone about it. After I watched the Lady Mechanic Documentary, I was inspired by her courage, confidence and tenacious attitude towards her passion. I have always had passion for dancing and I can do it well. I believe if I will have the opportunity to study mid-wifery, combined with my passion for dancing, I can make impact in the society, not only in the life of women, but in the world at large" - Jauri'a, a student from City Comprehensive Secondary School, Bauchi

Developing Entrepreneurship Skills of Young Girls:

The project successfully equipped 60 girls with skills on the production of re-usable sanitary pad. This will go a long way in supporting girls from low income families to maintain their hygiene during menstruation. In another vain; they can produce these reusable pads for commercial purposes and generate income. They were also equipped with catering and cosmetology skills.

Equipping Teachers to be Gender Responsive:

30 Secondary Teachers were equipped with gender responsive teaching techniques. A teacher from Government Day Secondary school Gwallameji narrated how he had a vigorous experience with a female student who disrespected him while he was teaching. He said that he asked to stand up, but she refused and snubbed him. He was very upset that he lost interest in the whole lesson that day. He later found out that the girl's attitude was not intended at disrespecting him; that she was menstruating and was badly stained when he asked her to stand up and he never knew. According to him, the Gender- Responsive Learning Pedagogy course he just attended has better equipped him with skills to manage each students' peculiarity.

Success Stories:

As a result of the #Project 12:30, the following were exceptional successes recorded.

Increased Enrolment of Girls to Primary and Secondary Schools:

YLN established and engaged the Community Education Influencers Committee to organize sensitization campaigns, outreaches, advocacies to parents on the importance of enrolling their girls in schools. This led to increased enrollment of girls in primary and secondary schools

Establishment of New Schools:

As a result of the advocacies conducted by the Community Education Influencers Committee at Kubi of Alkaleri LGA, a senior secondary school was established for the community. Initially, girls in kubi community have to travel to other communities to attend senior secondary schools, and those who can't afford it just remained at home.

Community Ownership for Sensitization on Girls Education:

Community leaders and religious leaders as a result of the advocacy activities of our community influencers have taken up the call to educate and sensitize their community members on girl child education. In mosques and churches, people get sensitized frequently on the need to send their girls to school. E.g The Emir of Dass LGA who was represented during the project review meeting at the Dass, conducted a meeting with all community and ward leaders under him to sensitize and mandate them to make girl child education a priority.

Increase in appetite for education among adolescent girls:

At adolescent girl's story telling centers in grass root communities, girls who are known for hawking and farm work are now seen prioritizing center days and activities. Some of the go for hawking, and during centers activity, the girls come to the center with their products to attend story telling sessions. In almost all of the clubs, the girls suggested to the facilitators to include literacy to their curriculum.

Teachers Equipped on School Safety and Gender Responsive Teaching:

The capacity 30 teachers and school administrators have been built on school safety gender responsive learning. This has help to promote gender responsiveness in schools and promote gender responsive learning in class. YLN believes that this will promote girl child education in the State.

Education Review Meetings:

The education review meetings conducted at the LGA level has promoted greatly the course of girl child education. This activity brought together strategic stake holders (LGA Education Secretaries, Emirs, Principal, etc) of education at the LGA level to discuss the challenges to education in the LGA, with keen interest on the issues of girl child education. This activity provided deeper prominence and partnership for the project.

Girls Storytelling Clubs:

The 9 storytelling clubs records at least, 30 girls per meeting for each center, and the club activities holds twice weekly. Through the storytelling clubs, the girls were sensitized and enlightened girls about their potential and inspired to dream beyond marriage. Rukayya Saminu one of the girls at Sabon layi storytelling Club who was out of school and does nothing but hawk. Today, Rukkaya dreams to become a medical doctor because of her dislike to see people suffer.

Community involved in School visitation:

The continuous visit of Community Education Influencers Committee to schools to monitor students attendance and teachers commitment is indeed a sustainable success of the project. Through these visits, girls who were staying at home due to excuses of not having school uniforms/PTA fee were permitted by the principals to attend school with other cloth, until their parent can afford uniforms and PTA fees. She now attends school after hawking in the morning.

Young Leaders Development Project

The Young Leaders Development Project (YLDP) seeks to build leadership skills amongst young people in secondary schools.

The Project which has been running in the organization since 2010 has recorded tremendous successes in the schools we work.

Currently, YLN runs YLDP clubs in 4 secondary schools in Bauchi and Plateau state where these young people are trained on leadership, civic education, SDGs, community development and other life skills weekly by a pool of trained volunteers and professionals. These clubs have also been trained in problem solving through the projects they carry out in their schools.
